PRISON OFFICIALS IN TOWN.

They Will Discuss Working Convicts on the Public Road.

The directors and wardens of the two State prisons are in the city. They will all go to Jeffersonville to-day, when a meeting of the committee appointed by the last Legislature to investigate the feasibility of working convicts on the public roads will meet. This committee has held several meetings, but has made no progress. It is expected that the committee will make

INVOLVES A BIG SUM

STOCK YARDS AND UNION RAILWAY COMPANIES' ARBITRATION.

Committee Decides that Former Company's Position Should Be Sustained -Relates to a Rental Bonus.

The differences between the Belt Railway and Stock Yards Company and the Union Railway Company, which involved an immense sum of money ultimately, have been settled by a board of arbitration to which they were submitted. These differences concerned the amounts paid by the Union Ratiway Company to the stock yards people. There was a smaller matter of dispute over a claim for water privileges at the yards, but this claim, which has not yet been adjusted, was not a part of the important matter at issue. While the decision of a majority of the board of arbitrators means that the Union Railway Company will pay to the stock yards company about $15,000 in charges for the year, it has a more farreaching effect, for it establishes the equity of a payment, proportionate to the extent of the business, each year as long as the lease of the Belt road to the Union Railway Company continues, and this lease is one of ninety-nine years of life. So ultimately the rum at Issue will amout to more than a

The arbitrator selected by President Ijams, of the Belt Railway and Stock Yards Company was Joseph T. Fanning, while the Union railway chose S. M. Felton, receiver of the Queen & Crescent railway system. These two gentlemen were unable to come to an agreement, and, in accordance with the provision of the lease, they chose as a third arbitrator S. R. Callaway, president of the Nickel-plate road, and one of the shrewdest railroad men in the country. Messrs. Fanning and Felton proceeded to All that yet remains is for the majority of the board to draw up a document showing

> A short time after the Belt railroad was built there was a misunderstanding between the company controlling it and the Union Railway Company. The Union Railway Company threatened to build another road paralleling the Belt, and had this been done the old road would have been a dead property, for the Union Railway Company is composed of all the railroads centering in this city. The Belt road company saw the danger and agreed to a compromise by which a commission of three disinterested civil engineers, men familiar with railroad construction, should appraise the property. The Union Railway Company agreed to lease the Belt road at an annual rental equal to 6 per cent. on the appraised value, which was fixed at $750,000 by the commission. In addition the Union Railway Company agreed to pay to the other company a certain amount on each car delivered at the stock yards. It was to the interest of the Union railway to have the stock yards people build up a big institution at West Indianapolis, for it would bring much traffic over the roads centering in Indianapolis. It would, of course, be of as much interest for the stock yards folks to bring stock to the city not only because the stock to the city, not only because the yards would profit thereby but because the revenues from the Belt road would be greater. Though the appraisement of the Belt was regarded as low, the contract as to the bonus on each car was regarded as > Recently a wave of economy has spread in railway circles, and the managers have felt that the terminal expenses should bear the brunt of any cut. The Union Railway Company wanted to lower expenses in this city, and as one measure sought to reduce this bonus paid the Belt Railway and Stock Yards Company. The reduction asked Yards Company. The reduction asked amounted to $15,000 at the present time, or about two-thirds of the amount annually paid.

The decision of Mr. Callaway was quite a victory for Mr. Fanning, who looked after the Belt Railway and Stock Yards Company's interests. It is said there is no appeal from the decision of the arbitrators.

SOMERBY DEFENDS HIMSELF.

Says His New Iron Hall Has $728,000 in Its Treasury.

Supreme President Somerby, of the Iron Hall, of Baltimore, was in Cincinnati last Tuesday night. It seems that the association has been reorganized and has, it is claimed, $728,000 in its treasury. Mr. Somerby made an address to the Cincinnati members, which was reported in the Cincinnati Tribune as follows: "I am glad to meet the men and women of the city who withstood the storm of '92 which struck the old ship. I have reason to remember that occasion. That time can never be effaced from my memory. Believing I had organized sixty-five thousand men and women, who had taken the vows of the order, and for twelve years had studied the practical lines upon which the order was built, I felt proud of the order, but an assassin, by a combination, broke the tie of friendship that bound us together. The press of the country joined hands with our adversaries and struck a blow that shattered the ship without cause or justification. I was the target. At my head was aimed the blows. If the order had but hesitated and questioned themselves and stood by the officers, instead of condemning stood by the officers, instead of condemning them, the good old ship would have weaththem, the good old ship would have weathered the storm. But it was not to be. Since that time, for three years, I was living under a serious charge, that of irregularity in the finances of the order. I waited long for an investigation, which was so long coming. I had your sympathy and I thank you. But 'all's well that ends well.' The storm is now over. The sky is brightening. Why is it the order still lives? Because the principles underlying our system were of too much value. When rebuilding the order we have kept to the lines of the the order we have kept to the lines of the old one, and have neither turned to the right nor to the left. When we rebuilt the order, we found it necessary to move East, where reason and justice could be found, and our standard is now planted in Baltimore. When I look back, and attempt to review the past, it appears like a dream to me. My adversaries have failed to find a charge against me. As have failed to find a charge against me. As far as I am concerned, either morally or financially, I stand clear. Is there anyone who can point a finger against me or any act of mine against the order of which I am prouder than life? Rather think you of a mother destroying her child. We did not know the cause of your destruction when the blow came, but we know it now. Legislation had been prepared to defeat the downfall. Think of it. An order that has grown from infancy amid many dangers grown from infancy amid many dangers and obstructions to a position which was recognized anywhere. Its credit was unsurpassed, and its paper was accepted everywhere. It sheltered sixty-five thousand families and its flag floated from fourteen thousand mastheads in every State in the

"On July 2, 1892, on Manhattan Beach, were congregated thirty thousand people to celebrate the occasion of our triumph in obtaining legislation favorable to our cause. In that gathering was the traitor, who went back to Indiana and struck the faial blow. Think of the bitterness I felt, and the depths of my regret when I considered that your interests were not protected, though mine had fallen. "After the blow had fallen we sent out invitations to every branch in the country to send representatives to Baltimore to inversaries, and devise ways and means to set aside the receivership at that time apoledges were made there, guaranteeing an onward march to Indiana to regain our lest from that point and thousands of our members flocked to the enemy, which resulted in our destruction. An embargo was placed on my travels. I was indicted in Indiana and Pennsylvania. The charge was held over me for three years, and not until the old order had been destroyed, and the money in the funds distributed, was I called upon to answer the charge.

"In Philadelphia, on June 21, I appeared before a court. A jury was impaneled, and, after the preliminaries had been completed, the district attorney said that, after is expected that the committee will make a report to the next Legislature. The wardens of the prisons report that all able-bodied men are now employed. The directors of the southern prison would like to effect another building, to be used as a boot and shoe factory, but have not sufficient money for the purpose.

ty-eight thousand dollars of the funds re-maining in the old order was transferred to the new, and we are slowly but surely regaining our lost position."

NEW BICYCLE INVESTMENTS.

Fred Patee Will Go to Peoria-A Company at Albany,

Fred Patee, formerly of the Indiana Bicycle Company, has purchased an interest in the bicycle and rubber tire works recently built at Peoria, Ill., by Monroe Seiberling, of the Kokomo Plate-glass Company. Mr. Patee will go to Peoria immediately to take charge of the sale of the output of the plant. The plant is a large one, with a capacity of about 25,000 wheels a year, and now has stock on hand for 20,000. On account of this purchase Mr. Patee has given up his plan of establishing a new plant in this city. This company, Mr. Patee says, will open a retail store in this city, which will be the equal of any of the stores here. It is backed by ample capital, he says, and will be able to do a large business. The store will be opened here about March 1. The wheel will be called the "Pater" The Albany Manufacturing Company was yesterday incorporated by the men who recently purchased the property of the Albany Land Company. Albany is a small gas town in Delaware county, near Muncle. This new company has an authorized capital of $1,000,000, and will manufacture bicycles and all parts necessary for their construction. The articles of association also indicate that the company contemplates the manufacture of machinery used in bicycle factories. Tubing, tires and other parts will also be made. The manufacture of tubing will be the principal work of the factory. The company will have for directors for the first year Charles F. Smith, A. B. Gates, Philip Goetz, Joseph T. Tedrowe and Albert J. Beveridge.

REPRESENTATIVES OF WESTERN CITIES WILL MEET HERE JAN. 7.

Indianapolis Will Be in the Circuit-Mr. Taggart and Mr. Beauchamp Confer.

a running race meeting next June. A movement looking toward this character of amusement is being talked of by the Indianapolis Driving Club. The matter will be definitely settled at a meeting of the representatives of various Western cities, to be held in this city, Jan. 7. The call issued yesterday for this meeting was the result of a conference held Wednesday at the Grand Hotel between President Taggart, of the Indianapolis Driving Club, and President Beauchamp, of the Vigo County Agricultural Society.

At the recent annual meeting of the Vigo county society it was decided to give a running meeting at Terre Haute next year instead of the usual trotting meeting, and to hold the minning meeting early in the season. This was deemed the better policy, since there had arisen more or less friction over the fact that the Vigo Trotting Association and the fair association were each trying to have successful trotting meetings but a few weeks apart. President Beau-ohamp then entered into a correspondence with gentlemen in a number of cities where it was thought successful running races could be held. The conference Wednesday between Messrs. Taggart and Beauchamp was of a formal character. One of the plans is to have the circuit open at Evansville the last ten days in May, by which arrangement it is thought many horses coming up from the South can be obtained. Terre Haute would follow with the first ten days in June, which would include the week of the national convention of the Travelers' Protective Association. Indianapolis would come next. The other cities along the circuit would probably be Fort along the circuit would probably be Fort Wayne, Dayton, Columbus, Saginaw, Grand Rapids and Detroit. These cities are not assured members of the circuit, but it is believed they will all favor the plan.

President Taggart, of the Indianapolis Driving Club, had this to say last night: "The members of the driving club all look upon the scheme kindly. We think the time has come when the people want a change in this kind of amusement, and would accept running races. Understand, button man hought): poultry $1,240.51; patwould accept running races. Understand, however, that this new deal is not to interfere with the usual trotting meeting which we will give in the fall, doubtless during the month of September. There is no doubt in my mind about the people taking hold of it. All we need is to give horsemen assurance that there will be a sufficient number of cities interested to pay them for making the circuit, and it will be a go. With a large circuit like that proposed, we can engage the attention of the best runners in the country and bring them here. Nothing of this kind has ever been attempted in Indianapolis, and it must cer-tainly prove an attractive novelty. There are no definite plans so far. Mr. Beauchamp and myself are enthusiastic, and we think the men who come here in January will take hold of it, although we can't tell.

Most of the cities heard from have shown considerable interest in the movement."

JUDGE BAKER PASSES ON CASE OF JAS. B. WILSON, OF THE PEOPLE.

Court Strongly Denounces the Articles that Appeared in Wilson's Publication-Supersedeas Asked For.

James B. Wilson, editor of the People was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary and was fined $250 yesterday by Judge Baker on the charge of sending obscene matter through the mails. The case came up on the petition for a new trial. John W. Kern, the attorney for the defense, based his claims upon the fact that the obscene matter was not specifically set out in the indictment. He also claimed that the indictment was faulty in that it did not charge that the obscene matter was deposited in the mail with the knowledge of the defendant that it was obscene. The argument was combated by District Attorney Burke. After argument Judge Baker asked the defendant if he had anything to say why sentence should not be passed upon him. His words were very indistinct, but he said something about the matter in his paper being the same as was printed in other papers of the city.

After summing up the matter Judge Baker, in pronounceing sentence, said: "You have received a fair trial and have been ably defended, but the jury has found you guilty, and with that verdict I am inclined to agree. In my opinion this offense of which you have been found guilty is much more aggravated than that of a man who steals a horse, or who thehes a pocketbook, or even burns down a house at midnight over its sleeping inmates. The government of the United States did not establish its mails for the evil purpose to which you have put them. They were established for pusiness convenience and to carry messages of love and affection between relatives and friends.

"The man who deliberately scatters abroad publications that are calculated to lead the young, the rising generation, astray, it seems to me, does a thing that is almost unpardonable. The thought of destroying a human life by means of this ob-scenity is a fearful thing. I would rather a thousand times that the midnight marauder should break into my house and than that the disseminator of this kind of literature should gain an audience among

"A poor man who steals a cow must perforce go to the penitentiary for two years, maybe fourteen; that the use of the mails for such a purpose is a less grievous offense than that of stealing a cow I am unable to see. I am not disposed to be severe, nor can I be so weak, or so regardless of the duty of this court as to refuse to guard the mails so that they shall not be used as the disseminator of obscene litera-ture to be used for the corruption and demoralization of the youth of the State."

Attorney Kern asked that Mr. Wilson be allowed to remain here ten days in the custody of the marshal while he prepared the papers and asked Judge Woods to grant a supersedeas pending an appeal. This was granted. Wilson was allowed to remain at granted. Wilson was allowed to remain at large on his old bond of $500. Afterward the deputy marshal informed the Judge that the bondsmen desired to be released from the bond. Judge Baker informed him that this could be done only by bringing Wilson into court and getting the releases in the proper manner.

The present bond is signed by Harry Walker, a saloon keeper. Wilson's first bond was signed by Charles Polster, an Indiana-avenue saloon keeper, but he asked to be released from it. The petition for a supersedeas had not been presented to Judge Woods last night.

Among the items of expense is one of $10 which is given as "advanced to patients," without any explanation. The institution received from sales of odd articles and rubbish $53.21, which was paid into the State treas-ury. At the beginning of the fiscal year there were 450 patients in the institution. During the year seventy-six were admitted. forty-six were discharged and twenty-four died, leaving 456 in the hospital at the close of the year. The cost per capita for the year was $175.27, or including the expenses for new construction the lost per capita was $217.64.

The report of the Southern hospital, also filed, shows that a balance of $15.20 was left of the year's appropriation of $85,000. This institution earned $69.59, which was paid into the State treasury. The larger NEW INDIANAPOLIS PLAYERS.

THE GAS PRESSURE INCREASES. Thirty-Eight Pounds Gained in Seven Hours Yesterday.

The machinery at the Indianapolis Gas Company's pumping station was set in motion yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock. At 228 pounds. The management said the gauge would register three hundred pounds by o'clock this morning, when it was predicted there would be plenty of gas for everybody. If three hundred pounds pres-sure does not suffice it will be increased

The machinery was first started Tuesday, when it was found a line of steam pipe when it was found a line of steam pipe had been improperly constructed. It was necessary to take out the pipe and supply expansion joints. The machinery was given a slow start in order to prevent overcrowding at the outset, and this fact, together with the low supply of gas in the mains, is said to be the reason there was little percentible difference in the fires last night perceptible difference in the fires last night. The increased pressure was registered in the face of falling temperature, a condition never before noticed, and the officials were satisfied last night the experiment would prove successful.

METCALF VOTED FOR HIMSELF. He Will Keep Himself in Office for

Some Time.

The State Board of Health met again yesterday and continued its deadlock on the proposition to elect a secretary. The matter stands as it has for nearly a year. The two Republican members voted for Dr. W. B. Clarke and the two Democratic members voted for Dr. R. French Stone, while Dr. Metcalf voted for himself. Thus the matter stands, with Dr. Metcalf holding the key to the situation and the secretaryship. There seems to be no more prospect of an agreement than there was six months ago. Though Dr. Clarke had received the personal indorsement of many of the most prom-inent Democrats, the party lines were drawn tightly and the incumbent retained.

The County Settles with Mr. Kern. The claim of John W. Kern, who assisted ex-County Attorney Brown in the Gallup tax cases, was allowed by the County Commissioners yesterday. When Mr. Kern presented his bill the two members who had served on the old board contended that he had been fully paid. Mr. Kern insisted that he had not, and a reference to the records showed that the county owed the
